

MARBL

Bio

MARBL is an Indie-Folk Band run by singer-songwriter Moria Or. The music has its own widely spread range of influences like Sufjan Stevens, Fink, Big Thief, Laura Marling, Norah Jones, Gregory Alan Isakov, Damien Rice & Bon Iver.

MARBL has already drawn the attention of dominant radio stations, music bloggers, journalists & publicists in France, the UK, Spain, Italy, Germany, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Portugal, Austria, Switzerland, Israel, the USA, Japan, and more, and hit some big official Spotify playlists around the world.

The past E.P "The Flight of The Hawks" and the time followed was promising for MARBL, with a booking contract in the US, sync deals in LA, Germany and Israel, two campaigns leading songs, Invitations for more tours and festival in Europe, over a 1,000,000 Spotify streams, and hundreds of thousands youtube watches, radio playings all over the world and massive international press reviews.

"Never Get Out" is the new single from the third upcoming album. It tells the story of a lost love, revealing a new side of MARBL's music, tender, honest, and intimate, accompanied by a touching video, directed, filmed & edited by Tomer Levi. "A gorgeous off-spring of two good looking generic parents – the practical and solid folk father, the gracious and the charming hipster mother"

(The Swindonian Magazine)

"A stand out vocal performance"

(Earmilk)

"Delicate and stunning Folk- Pop"

(The Revue)

MARBL, an Israeli singersongwriter who reminds us somewhat of an early Laura Marling"

(York Calling)

"A mature yet intoxicating sound"

(Clash)

"MARBL draw on beauty in both simplicity and in being genuine"

(Hit The Floor)

"The sweet acoustic guitar picking, combined with a lullaby-sounding melody wraps a warm hug around anyone who is still slightly hung up on their first love"

(Rock The Pigeon)
